

This is what makes their stories worth exploring.

The Musical shows us what happens.

The Podcast asks the questions.

The questions we explore include:

Jennifer

Why can we become emotionally dependent on someone, even when we know the relationship is hurting us?

Laila

What is the likely cost of the career break in earnings, pension, promotion and future earning power?

Zahida

What can it take to reclaim our independence after years of depending on someone else?

James

What experiences and influences shape how we behave in relationships — and what happens when we never question them?

Matthew

What happens when career and monetary ambitions dominate our daily lives, leaving other areas impoverished?

Sam

How can what we witness growing up influence the person we choose to become?

MEN? The Musical is about cultural conversations, emotional connections and mutual respect.

It is about understanding ourselves well enough to take responsibility for what we do next.

That is where personal elevation begins.
